Problems with email service

Covering on period for the first six month of this year there were considerable problems ith the email service for all accounts using the domain name jdrecovery.team - In an attempt to resolve these issues, the hosting server was changed and all the email accounts recreated. There was no real improvent until a help desk operative discovered that certain settings needed treaking on the hosting set up. However this episode took up an inordinate amount of time. A nominal sum of a 12hrs is therefore charge for the work carried out.
